The American Bookbinders Museum was founded by commercial bookbinder Tim James, who has always been passionate about the craft's historic and present day implications. The museum is dedicated to providing a complete experience of bookbinding history, craft, and culture. Much of the equipment works and functions just as it did in the 19th century, providing an extraordinary backdrop for corporate and social events, receptions, and meetings in our urban-contemporary space. Capacity is up to 112. We also love to offer tours during your event!
